

Call for Papers

I Meeting of the Sopcom Intercultural Communication Working Group

It is open until July 9 the call for papers for the I Meeting of the Working Group on Intercultural Communication of SOPCOM, to be held on October 4, 2018, at Mosteiro de São Martinho de Tibães, Braga.

The promotion of diversity in the media and in cultural institutions is a current concern, and policies have been implemented at the international and national levels to promote respect for populations cultural diversity.

The I Meeting of the Intercultural Communication Working Group of SOPCOM aims to bring together researchers, teachers, media and arts professionals who, from different perspectives, study ways of communicating cultural diversity through media, cultural products and the arts.

The WG accepts communication proposals that explore how the media and cultural institutions represent, interpret, and deconstruct views around intercultural relations. Studies that analyze the role of the media in reflection and deepening knowledge about the “Other” are welcome.

In addition to other topics in the broader area of intercultural communication, the Working Group accepts communication proposals on the following topics:

Cultural diversity policies

Memories, diversity and social inclusion

Migrations, diversity and education

Cultural industries and diversity

Intergenerational communication

Intersections, communication and gender studies

Identity, otherness, media and cultural heritage

Important dates:

Submission deadline: July 9, 2018

Notification of acceptance: July 31, 2018

Instructions for submission of communication proposals:

To participate in this meeting please send an abstract of up to 300 words about the research or intervention you are developing and a brief biography of about 150 words for the organizing committee: gtcomunicacaointercultural@gmail.com